

Contents

|              |   |
|--------------|---|
| Introduction | 9 |
|--------------|---|

I. FORMAL AND INFORMAL POLITICS: QUESTIONS, CONCEPTS AND SUBJECTS

Gerd Meyer

|   |    |
|---|----|
| 1. Focus of Analysis, Main Questions and Hypotheses                               | 13 |
| 2. Key Concepts   | 16 |
| 2.1. The Formal and the Informal Dimension of Politics                            | 16 |
| 2.2. Emergence, Functions and Evaluation of Informal Politics                     | 23 |
| 2.3. Democratization as an Analytical and Normative Perspective                   | 29 |
| 2.4. Informal Politics: Political Culture and Social Capital at Work              | 34 |
| 3. A Complex Informal Pattern: The Personalization of Politics                    | 36 |
| 3.1. Personalization: Concept and Functions                                       | 37 |
| 3.2. Contexts and Conditions  | 40 |
| 3.3. Patterns of Elitist Rule   | 42 |
| 3.4. Institutions and the Rule of Law   | 50 |
| 3.5. Political Parties and Parliamentary Politics                                 | 52 |
| 3.6. The Media and the Presentation of Politics                                   | 53 |
| 3.7. Personality and Images of Political Leaders                                  | 55 |
| 3.8. Election Campaigns, Voting and the Voters                                    | 56 |
| 3.9. An example: Clans and Personalized Politics in the Russian Republic of Sakha | 61 |
| 3.10. Personalization, Populism and Patterns of Legitimacy                        | 64 |
| 4. Formal and Informal Bases of Democratic Legitimacy                             | 67 |
| 4.1. Democratic Legitimacy – A Preliminary Definition                             | 67 |
| 4.2. Objective Foundations for Democratic Legitimacy                              | 68 |
| 4.3. Subjective Foundations of Democratic Legitimacy                              | 71 |
| 4.4. Types and Measures of Political Support                                      | 73 |
| 4.5. Mass Loyalty, Democratic Legitimacy and System Stability                     | 75 |
| 5. Legitimacy in Postcommunist Systems: The Case of Russia                        | 78 |
| 5.1. Contexts, Differences and General Tendencies                                 | 78 |
| 5.2. Legitimacy and „Directed Democracy“: The Ambivalent Case of Russia           | 83 |
| 5.2.1 A Strong and Popular Leader: Putin or the Man is the Program                | 84 |
| 5.2.2 Basic Values and the Understanding of Democracy                             | 88 |

|        |  |     |
|--------|--|-----|
| 5.2.3. | The Acceptance of the Political System and Trust in Public Institutions                | 95  |
| 5.2.4  | Democratic Legitimacy Through Free and Fair Elections?                                 | 99  |
| 5.2.5  | Legitimate Control of Civil Society? – The Civil Chamber as a Form of Soft Corporatism | 104 |
| 5.2.6  | The Power Elite, Informal Politics and the Role of the “Oligarchs”                     | 107 |
| 5.2.7  | Performance: Mixed Evaluations of the System and Putin’s Policies                      | 116 |
| 5.2.8  | Summary: Democratic Legitimacy for Putin’s New Order?                                  | 120 |
| 5.3.   | Concluding Remarks   | 128 |

II. FORMAL INSTITUTIONS AND INFORMAL POLITICS IN HUNGARY

Andras Bozóki/Eszter Simon

|      |   |     |
|------|---|-----|
| 1.   | The Era of Transition: Formal Institutions and Informal Politics  | 146 |
| 1.1. | Elections and the Party System                                    | 146 |
| 1.2. | The Legislature and the Government                                | 151 |
| 1.3. | The Head of State   | 156 |
| 1.4. | The Judiciary   | 158 |
| 1.5. | Local Governments   | 159 |
| 2.   | The Guardians of Constitutionality and Human Rights               | 161 |
| 2.1. | The Constitutional Court  | 161 |
| 2.2. | Ombudsmen   | 163 |
| 2.3. | Human Rights and the Protection of Minorities                     | 165 |
| 3.   | Informal Politics and Political Culture: Conflict and Cooperation | 166 |
| 4.   | The Personalization of Politics                                   | 170 |
| 5.   | Democratic Legitimacy   | 176 |
| 5.1. | Regime Support and Satisfaction with Democracy                    | 176 |
| 5.2. | Political Participation and Trust in Democratic Institutions      | 179 |
| 5.3. | Corruption  | 182 |
| 6.   | Conclusions   | 185 |

III. FORMAL INSTITUTIONS AND INFORMAL POLITICS IN POLAND

Aleksandra Wyrozumska/Gerd Meyer

|      |  |     |
|------|--|-----|
| 1.   | A Conceptual Framework: Three Levels of Institutionalization | 196 |
| 2.   | Democracy, Formal Institutions and their Legitimacy          | 197 |
| 2.1. | The Legislative Power: the Lower and the Upper               |     |

|      |   |     |
|------|---|-----|
| 2.2. | House (Sjem, Senat)   | 199 |
| 2.2. | State Authorities: the President, the Prime Minister, the Council of Ministers and the Highest Courts | 200 |
| 2.3. | Sceptical Support: Democracy and Trust in Institutions  | 202 |
| 2.4. | Controversies on Reforms of State Institutions and their Legitimacy                                   | 208 |
| 3.   | Formal and Informal Norms in Poland: A Double Incompatibility   | 209 |
| 3.1. | “Negotiations Democracy”: Informal Practices between Heavy Industry and Government                    | 210 |
| 3.2. | Normative vs. Pragmatic Dimensions of the Political and Social Level                                  | 212 |
| 3.3. | Democracy as a Façade?  | 214 |
| 4.   | Modes of Informal Economic and Political Action   | 217 |
| 4.1. | The Heritage of the Past: Continuity and Discontinuity in Informal Politics                           | 217 |
| 4.2. | Conflicts over the Distribution of Power: The Blocking Mechanism                                      | 220 |
| 5.   | Ambivalent Effects of the Personalization of Polish Politics  | 222 |
| 5.1. | Lech Wałęsa's Quest for Personal Rule   | 222 |
| 5.2. | Aleksander Kwaśniewski's and the Socialists' Rise to Power in 1993 and 1995                           | 223 |
| 5.3. | Some Effects of Personalization in Poland after 1996  | 225 |
| 6.   | Conclusions: The Not So Dim Prospects for Polish Democracy  | 232 |

IV. FORMAL INSTITUTIONS AND INFORMAL POLITICS IN RUSSIA

Aitalina Azarova

|       |  |     |
|-------|--|-----|
| 1.    | The Constitutional Framework: President and Parliament                                   | 239 |
| 1.1.  | Presidential Powers  | 239 |
| 1.2.  | Parliamentary Powers   | 245 |
| 2.    | Elections and the Party System   | 249 |
| 2.1.  | Structures, Actors, Trends – An Overview   | 249 |
| 2.2.  | Effects of Electoral Rules: The Federal Level  | 253 |
| 2.3.  | The Dynamics of Party Formations in the Regions  | 255 |
| 2.3.1 | The Character of Regional Parties  | 256 |
| 2.3.2 | Effects of the Electoral Reform Law of 2003  | 257 |
| 2.4.  | Informal Electoral Practices   | 259 |
| 2.4.1 | First Phase: Candidates and Parties Prepare the Elections                                | 260 |
| 2.4.2 | Second Phase: Official Announcement of Elections, Registration of Candidates and Parties | 261 |
| 2.4.3 | Third Phase: The Electoral Campaign  | 262 |
| 2.4.4 | Fourth Phase: Election Day and its Aftermath   | 265 |

|  |  |     |
|--|--|-----|
| 3.   | Center-Periphery Relations, Regional and Local Governments   | 265 |
| 4.   | Democratic Legitimacy by a Strong State?   | 268 |
| V. FORMAL INSTITUTIONS AND INFORMAL POLITICS IN UKRAINE |  |     |
| Kerstin Zimmer  |  |     |
| 1.   | Introduction   | 274 |
| 2.   | The Emergence and Character of the Neo-patrimonial State   | 275 |
| 2.1.   | Soviet Legacies and Independence   | 276 |
| 2.2.   | A new Constitution: The Formal Institutions of the State   | 278 |
| 2.3.   | The Real Character of the Political System:A Neo-Patrimonial State                                   | 282 |
| 2.4.   | The Role and Character of Informal Groups  | 287 |
| 2.5.   | The State Apparatus as an Instrument of Control  | 288 |
| 2.6.   | The Kuchma Regime 1999-2004: Political Reformsand Elite Competition as a Means of Power Preservation | 289 |
| 2.7.   | The end of the Kuchma regime: The “Orange Revolution”in late 2004                                    | 292 |
| 3.   | Regional Governance: Formal and Informal Aspects   | 293 |
| 3.1.   | Budgeting as a Means of Control  | 296 |
| 3.2.   | Elections: Machine Politics, AdministrativeResources and Fraud                                       | 299 |
| 4.   | The Enigma of Stability, Consolidation and Legitimacy  | 304 |
| 4.1.   | Understanding and Assessing Democracy  | 305 |
| 4.2.   | Acceptance of the Economic and Political Transformation  | 307 |
| 4.3.   | Stability and Revolutionary Changes  | 308 |
| 4.4.   | After the Orange Revolution  | 311 |
| 5.   | Conclusions  | 312 |
| The authors  |  | 322 |
| Index  |  | 324 |
| List of Diagrams and Tables                                |  | 328 |