

Table of Contents

1. Introduction: European Economic Governance	15
1.2. Scientific contribution of the study	16
1.3. Introducing key terms	19
1.4. Research aims and objectives	22
1.5. Scope of research: case and country selection	23
1.6. Structure of the project	25
2. Conceptualising European Economic Governance	27
2.1. Defining governance	28
2.2. Multi-level governance in the European Union	32
2.3. The current state of European economic governance	34
2.4. Drawback and benefits of European economic governance structures	37
3. Explaining the Transformation of European Economic Governance	43
3.1. From rational actor models to the ideational turn	45
3.1.1. The neofunctional perspective on European integration	46
3.1.2. The bargaining-oriented perspective	50
3.1.3. Towards a framework of social constructivism	55
3.2. The role of reform discourses	59
3.2.1. Ideas: a conceptual account	60
3.2.2. Economic ideas: monetary and tax policy in the EU	65
3.2.3. Legitimising policy ideas: elites, media and the public	72
3.3. Political communication in the European Union	79
3.3.1. Decision-making rules and actors	80
3.3.2. The European communicative discourse	86
3.4. A framework for analysis and guiding research hypotheses	93

4. Methodology: Research Design and Methods 99

4.1.	The research design: a comparative and over-time case study approach	100
4.1.1.	A qualitative case study approach	100
4.1.2.	Cross-case and over-time comparison: explanations and arguments	103
4.1.3.	Country selection: EU, Germany, France and the UK	107
4.2.	The research technique: a qualitative content analysis	109
4.2.1.	Data collection and sampling techniques	110
4.2.2.	A qualitative content analysis based on thematic structuring	115
4.2.3.	Developing thematic categories and coding guidelines	118
4.3.	Summary: methodological considerations	122

5. Monetary Governance: Case Description and Analysis 125

5.1.	Monetary governance in the EU: an overview	126
5.1.1.	Monetary cooperation in Europe: origins, changes and priorities	127
5.1.2.	Economic and monetary union: policy initiatives and theory	129
5.2.	Governance failure and the Werner Plan	132
5.2.1.	The Commission and the Werner Plan	133
5.2.2.	Leaders and elites in France and Germany	137
5.2.3.	The failure to legitimise the Werner Plan?	144
5.2.4.	Economic instability and the unfeasibility of the Werner Plan	155
5.3.	Legitimising the Delors Plan	156
5.3.1.	The Commission and the Delors Plan	156
5.3.2.	Leaders and elites in France and Germany	160
5.3.3.	Policy legitimisation: the emergence of a reform understanding?	167
5.3.4.	The 1988 EMU: the emergence of a central bank consensus	179
5.4.	Policy discourses and the evolution of European monetary governance	181

6. Company Taxation: Case Description and Analysis	185
6.1. Business taxation in the EU: definitions and developments	186
6.1.1. Corporate taxation in Europe: origins, changes and priorities	186
6.1.2. European initiatives: a historical outline	191
6.2. The failure of the 1975 business tax reform	193
6.2.1. The Commission and the 1975 directive: a progressivity approach	194
6.2.2. The member states: systems, changes and viewpoints	197
6.2.3. Policy legitimisation: the lack of issue salience	203
6.2.4. The 1975 governance failure and the lack of reform relevance	211
6.3. Soft governance and the Code of Conduct against tax competition	213
6.3.1. The Commission and the rise of a new discourse	213
6.3.2. The member states: systems, changes and viewpoints	216
6.3.3. Policy legitimisation: the harmony on unfair competition	223
6.3.4. The 1997 Code of Conduct: the emergence of a consensus	232
6.4. Reform discourses and the evolution of European tax governance	233
7. Comparative Analysis and Conclusion	237
7.1. The institutionalisation of economic ideas and European governance	238
7.2. The role of issue salience and governance success	241
7.3. Policy ideas and European governance success	244
7.4. The construction of soft and supranational governance structures	246
7.5. Political communication in the EU: elites, media and the public	248
7.6. Critical evaluation and outlook	251
8. Bibliography	257
8.1. Secondary Literature	257
8.2. Primary Literature	275
Appendix	283