

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgments	xi
List of Acronyms	xiii
Introduction	I
PART I Getting Together	9
CHAPTER ONE
“In the Lead of the World:” From the Birth of the American Federation of Labor in the 1880s to Lovestone’s Expulsion from the CPUSA	II
CHAPTER TWO
“There’ll Be a Revolution:” Industrial Unionism, Communism and Lovestone’s Shift to the Right	39
CHAPTER THREE
Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy: Enter the Free Trade Union Committee and the Central Intelligence Agency	55
PART II Working Together	79
CHAPTER FOUR
“Fertile Fields:” The Free Trade Union Committee in France	81

CHAPTER FIVE

“A Certain Strategic Emergency:” The Free Trade Union Committee, the United Nations and the Issue of Slave Labor	97
--	----

CHAPTER SIX

“People Speaking to People:” Labor’s Role in the Radio Free Europe and with the National Committee for a Free Europe	117
--	-----

PART III Falling Apart	131
-------------------------------	-----

CHAPTER SEVEN

“AFL Stooges:” The Unraveling of the Relationship between the Free Trade Union Committee and the National Committee for a Free Europe	133
---	-----

CHAPTER EIGHT

“Allies and Not Agents:” The Decline of the Relationship between the Free Trade Union Committee and the Central Intelligence Agency	163
---	-----

Conclusion	177
------------	-----

Selected Bibliography	191
-----------------------	-----

Index	199
-------	-----