

Inhaltsverzeichnis

120	Introduction	1
126	Abbreviations	11
131	I. Introduction	15
131	II. Theory and Methods	21
131	1. Primary Decisions	21
131	2. A Liberal Approach to Chinese UN policy-making	27
131	2.1. Deriving State Preferences	39
131	2.2. Limiting State Preferences	45
131	3. Methods and Case Selection	49
132	III. Historical Influences	53
132	IV. Domestic determinants	65
132	1. The Chinese Communist Party Leadership	67
132	2. Social Groups: State Level	76
132	2.1. Ministries and other Institutions under the State Council	76
132	2.2. People's Liberation Army (PLA)	87
132	2.3. Think Tanks	90
132	3. Social Groups: Society-Level	94
132	3.1. Corporate Interest Groups and Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs)	96
132	3.2. Public Intellectuals and Political Currents	106
132	3.3. Online Media	111
132	4. Conclusion	116

V. International determinants	119
1. Alleged Adversary: The United States	120
2. Limited Partner: The Russian Federation	126
3. Spirit of Friendship: The Developing Countries and the G77	131
4. Conclusion	136
VI. Case Studies	139
1. Peace	139
1.1. Engagement in Peacekeeping Operations	141
1.2. Position towards the concept of a 'Responsibility to Protect'	169
2. Development	188
2.1. Achieving the Millennium Development Goals	191
2.2. Position towards Sustainability and Human Development	216
3. Migration and Case Selection	239
VII. Conclusion	239
VIII. Annex	251
IX. Bibliography	253